Aortopulmonary nodal mass infiltrating the left recurrent laryngeal nerve (A) causing left vocal cord palsy and physiologically increased uptake in the right vocal cord (B - arrow).
Right sided lower neck (level IV) nodal mass infiltrating the right recurrent laryngeal nerve (A & B) causing paralysis of the right vocal cord & compensatory increased uptake in the left vocal cord (C).